TAMIL NADU: A STILLBORN MOVE PG 18

MICRO QUAKES: FAULT LINES IN SAURASHTRA PG 22

MAMATA'S BEST FOOT FORWARD PG 20

BIHAR: SHOTGUN WEDDINGS PG 24

TCS HIRING SCAM

SYSTEM FAILURE

By M.G. Arun

The hiring scam unearthed at India's top IT employer, Tata Consultancy Services (TCS), has delivered a jolt not only to the parent Tata Group but also to the sector at large, and is likely to make tech firms take a hard look at their hiring processes and put better systems in place. The scandal involves a few employees in TCS's Resource Management Group (RMG)—which is in charge of mobilising contract staff for various projects—allegedly giving preferential treatment to certain staffing firms in lieu of bribes.

Experts believe such instances of scams or governance lapses will hurt the country's image as an IT services destination, and encourage clients to shift work elsewhere. Tata Group chairman N. Chandrasekaran has said the firm will be reviewing its hiring processes to ensure such events do not get repeated. RMG, which is very much a part of the company, though, is different from the talent acquisition team that looks for permanent staffers and, in turn, hires

Illustration by NILANJAN DAS