
Leela Raviz Ashtamudi

Almighty and my dedicated employees.

First and foremost, I attribute whatever accomplishments I have achieved to the grace of God. I firmly believe that God's guidance and blessings have been instrumental in shaping my path and providing me with the strength and resilience needed to overcome challenges.

Equally important, I owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to my sincere employees. They are the backbone of my organization and the driving force behind our success. I consider them not just employees, but a part of my extended family. Trust is the foundation of our relationship, and it is something that cannot be purchased or forced. It must be earned.

To foster a sense of trust and belonging, we make sure that our employees feel at home. We provide 24-hour canteens in each of our employee camps, ensuring that their basic needs are met. Celebrating festivals together further strengthens the bond within our organization.

I firmly believe that without the support and trust of our workers, it would be impossible to maintain the quality and integrity that define our organization. Their commitment and loyalty drive us forward, and I am deeply grateful for their contributions to our collective journey of growth and success.

Of course, none of my achievements would have been possible without the strong and loving support of my family.

Q At the age of 70, what is the mantra which drives you personally and professionally?

I believe trust and commitment are the two most important values to follow in life and business. Over the years I have earned the trust of different governments abroad, and the best international companies in the oil & gas sector. Initially, when I started the business in Saudi Arabia, International companies thought Indian workers were good only in gardening, driving and domestic jobs. Through my consistent efforts I could prove them wrong showcasing the real strength of Indian workforce who could excel in any field of work. This has helped gaining international acceptance for Indian workforce giving them huge job opportunities abroad.

For me, success is not solely defined by monetary achievements. Instead, I prioritize quality and timely delivery in everything we do within RP Group. By upholding these values, we build a reputation of trust and excellence, which is the true measure of success in my eyes.

Integrity plays a significant role in my approach to business and life. I firmly believe in conducting myself with honesty and truthfulness. It is essential to stay true to our principles and never compromise our values, regardless of the challenges we face. This commitment to honesty and integrity has been a guiding light for me throughout my journey.

Ups and downs are an inevitable part of life and business. Rather than running away from challenges, I confront them head-on. I embrace difficult situations as opportunities for growth and learning. By facing challenges with determination and resilience, I believe that ultimate victory is achievable.

Additionally, maintaining a positive attitude and a sense of humor helped me to be agile and adaptable. Laughter and a lighthearted approach help alleviate stress and keep things in perspective, allowing me to navigate through obstacles with a smile.

I would prefer to say that for me it is a combination of hard work, integrity, a focus on quality, and an optimistic mindset. By embracing these principles, I strive to lead a fulfilling and purposeful life, both personally and professionally.

While this has always been the motto of my life, nothing changes for me at age 70, and I believe age is just a number. I continue to follow the same mantra, which keeps me moving forward with enthusiasm.

Q You have personally touched the life of millions through your RP Foundation, what prompted you to float a foundation to help the needy?

I wanted R P Foundation to possess strong commitment for making a positive impact in our society focusing on various areas of social welfare, including education, healthcare, empowerment, and community development. Through its initiatives, the foundation aims to uplift underprivileged communities, support educational opportunities, improve healthcare access, and promote overall well-being. On many occasions we also have been involved in disaster relief and rehabilitation activities. Over the years the Foundation has helped thousands of people officially and unofficially. One of our major contributions was conducting thousands of Mass marriages of poor people, providing them gold, financial support to cover the expenses, and even providing job opportunities.

In the education sector, RP Foundation has undertaken numerous initiatives to provide

With Honorable Kerala Chief Minister Shri. Pinarayi Vijayan on the occasion of celebrating 50 Golden years of Kovalam.
