quality education to children from disadvantaged backgrounds to bridge the educational divide and empower students to achieve their full potential.

In the healthcare domain, RP Foundation has contributed significantly to enhancing healthcare facilities and services in local communities. This includes establishing hospitals, clinics, dialysis centers, and medical centers, as well as supporting initiatives related to disease prevention, medical research, and access to healthcare for vulnerable populations. The foundation actively collaborates with government agencies, non-profit organizations, and other stakeholders to maximize its impact and reach.

To me, RP Foundation is not only an individual's effort and thought process, but also a legacy and culture more importantly. My family participates in my endeavors and stands next to me when I am involved in Foundation's activities. It is also a culture for my management team and staff, who participate in Foundation's events even though they are employees of other operating companies. For instance, during Kerala floods, my hospitality staff volunteered and helped the needy get food, shelter, and clothes while they were stuck in areas impacted by the flood. My biggest achievement would be to let the activities of the Foundation survive beyond me, in a bigger and bigger way.

Q How you are to going to mould the future of your corporate house?

I attribute a significant part of my life's success to my beloved wife, Geetha, who has been a pillar of support throughout my journey. Her unwavering love, understanding, and support played a vital role in enabling me to pursue my endeavors with confidence.

As a busy father, I had to prioritize my time and energy towards business commitments. In this respect, Geetha has been an exceptional mother, taking care of our children with utmost care and devotion. Her nurturing and guidance have shaped our children's lives in a remarkable way.

Today, I am grateful to have my son, Ganesh, and daughter, Dr. Arathi, working alongside me full time. Their presence in the business allows me the opportunity to personally mentor them, ensuring a smooth transition as they gradually take charge of the future of our enterprise.

Ganesh has found a life partner in Anjana, and Dr. Arathi is married to Dr. Aditya Vishnu. These unions have further strengthened our family bonds, creating a harmonious and supportive environment within our personal and professional lives with the collective efforts of my wife and the involvement of my children and their respective partners. I am confident in the continuity and success of our business for generations to come. Together, we are shaping a future where our shared vision and values will continue to guide us towards new horizons.

Most importantly, I feel satisfied that my children have embraced the same value system, on which I laid the foundation of this Group and which has earned us a strong reputation as well as blessings of so many people. Once again I thank the Almighty for my success.
