

A slab from the Kanaganahalli stupa before restoration. It shows a victorious Satavahana king named as Raja Pulumavi pouring water over the hand of a defeated ruler in a traditional gift-bestowing ceremony. This could portray Vasishthiputra Sri Pulumavi I, who ruled for twenty-eight years c. 110–138 CE, or Sira Sri Pulumavi II, who followed him some seven years later and ruled for seven years.
