31 Editorial, ‘Resurrecting the author’, The Hindu, 7 July 2016.

32 Anand Ranganthan, ‘The death of nationalism: Who killed Dabholkar, Pansare and Kalburgi’, Newslaundry, 14 September 2015.

33 Attributed to the US senator and sociologist Daniel Moynihan.

34 It also has some admirable media proprietors, such as the owners of Chennai’s family-run The Hindu newspaper, the most widely read English-language daily in South India, and its fortnightly magazine Frontline. Founded in Madras in 1878 by six Tamil lawyers and law students to counter what they saw as the bias of the Anglo-Indian press of the time, The Hindu continues to maintain that same tradition of standing up to the orthodoxy of the day and giving space to the unorthodox. Newslaundry is another such news organisation that comes to mind.