

Gouache of a Brahmin couple from the Konkan, from an album of ‘Native types’, c. 1845. The crudely printed caption reads: ‘CONCANEES or CANNEREENS are the descendants of the Brahmins, who came and settled here from Goa and other parts of the country, they are chiefly traders sroffs [shroffs, or bankers, from Arabic saraaf] goldsmiths &c.’