January 1556: Death of Humayun.

14 February 1556: The thirteen-year-old Akbar is proclaimed Padshah

Ghazi of Hindustan.

October 1556: Hemu, a Sur general, takes over Delhi.

November 1556: Second Battle of Panipat between Hemu and the forces of Akbar. The Afghan army is defeated and Hemu is beheaded by Bairam Khan. Mughal forces enter Delhi and Agra.

1558: Royal begums arrive in India from Kabul.

1560: Akbar dismisses Bairam Khan.

1560: Mughal forces, under the command of Adham Khan, Maham Anaga's son, defeat the forces of Baz Bahadur and capture Malwa with immense brutality.

January 1562: Akbar visits the dargah of Khwaja Muinuddin Chishti in Ajmer.

1562: Akbar uses Chingizid yassa law in order to marry into the shaikhzada families. Assassination attempt on Akbar by a freed slave from Ajmer. Arrow strikes Akbar on the shoulder.

1562: Akbar abolishes the jiziya tax.

1562: Akbar commissions the Hamzanama which is finally completed in 1577.

1562: Akbar is married to Harkha Bai, daughter of Raja Bharmal of the Kachhwaha Rajputs in Amer, later known as Maryam uz Zamani (popularly but mistakenly known as Jodha Bai). Akbar meets twelve-year-old Man Singh for the first time.

February 1568: After a brutal four-month siege of Chittor, Akbar declares it a sarkar of the Mughal Empire and places it in the charge of Asaf Khan.

December 1568: The fort of Ranthambore is besieged by the Mughal forces and conquered. The Baghela Rajputs, Rathores of Bikaner, and the Bhatis of Jaisalmer also submit to the Padshah and become part of the Mughal Empire.