ever vernal flower-garden of “peace with all”. …Hence it is fitting that kings, who are the shadow of Divinity, should not cast away this principle. For, the Creator has given this sublime order (that of kings) for the discipline and guardianship of all mankind, so that they may watch over the honour and reputation of every class.’

The Jesuits of the third mission, like those before them, would be fatally beguiled by the possibility of the Padshah’s conversion and would remain at court for decades, into the reign of Jahangir. The Jesuits in the sixteenth century, like the observers in the twenty-first century, would fail to gauge the unfathomable depths of Akbar’s faith.
