

From the operational point of view, you have seen multi-domain operations. It is no longer only contact warfare but also warfare in the domain of cyber, space, EW and even information warfare, or the battle of narratives

♦♦♦

Land will remain a decisive domain in warfare, especially when we have contested land borders. The notion of victory will remain land-centric in our context

♦♦♦

Transformation largely, the way we look at it, is to enable us to become a more modern, agile and battle-ready force that can meet our future challenges more effectively. The purpose of the transformation we are looking at is to increase operational efficiency, enhance operational effectiveness