For years, dance training for Yuvraj Singh, 19, popularly known as 'Baba Jackson' today, meant learning from his own shadow at home in the absence of a mirror. And yet, his slick moves today have come to earn praise from the likes of Hrithik Roshan and Varun Dhawan; in fact, Hrithik once said that Jackson's was the 'smoothest' airwalk he had ever seen. From dancing on a tiny rooftop in Jodhpur to becoming a TikTok star and winning an online dance reality show in 2020, Jackson has literally airwalked his way to fame.

"I grew up watching Hrithik Roshan, Prabhu Deva sir. They have inspired me a lot," he says. He now wants to help aspiring dancers, like the Gully Girls group from Neemuch, Madhya Pradesh. "I want to lead my life in such a way that when I breathe my last, I should be satisfied that I did something for someone." ■

"I came to know about Michael Jackson only through TV. My parents would put me in front of a TV to keep me quiet
