Mahatma Gandhi in September 1932 Bills will be introduced in either Chamber, but Money Bills and Votes of Supply will be initiated only in the Assembly No Bill will become law until it has been agreed to by both Chambers and has been assented to by the Governor-General, or in the case of a Reserved Bill until His Majesty in Council has signified his assent Any Act assented to by the Governor-General will within twelve months be subject to disallowance by His Majesty in Council The Governor-General will, however, have the power to enact at his discretion as a Governor-General's Act any Bill which is not passed by the Chambers within a specified date in spite of a message from the Governor-General that that Bill should become law by that date A Governor-General's Act will have the same force and effect as an Act of the Legislature The Governor-General will be further empowered in his discretion, in any case in which he considers that a Bill introduced or proposed for introduction or any clause thereof or any amendment to a Bill moved or proposed would affect the discharge of his responsibility, to direct that the said Bill, Clause or Amendment shall not be further proceeded with It will thus be seen that the Governor-General has been vested with extraordinarily wide powers in the matter of modifying any legislation under consideration, withholding legislation completely and enacting fresh legislation Such powers he does not possess even today

The White Paper further says 'Apart from the Reserved Departments and the 'special responsibilities' of the Governor-General outside the sphere of those departments, there is a third category of matters in which the Governor-General will not be under any constitutional obligation to seek or having sought, to be guided by ministerial advice For this purpose certain specified powers will be conferred by the Constitution on the Governor-General and will be expressed as being exercisable 'at his discretion' In this category of 'discretionary powers' His Majesty's Government anticipate that the following matters will be included:

(a) The power to dissolve prorogue and summon the Legislature
(b) The power to assent to, or withhold assent from Bills or to reserve them for signification of His Majesty's pleasure.
(c) The grant of previous sanction to the introduction of certain classes of Legislative measures
