BHUVAN BAM & TANISHK BAGCHI

CRACKING THE VIRAL CODE

The year 2021 made it clear that to succeed as an artist, you need to deliver both quality and quantity. For YouTuber Bhuvan Bam and music composer Tanishk Bagchi, this balance no longer seems elusive. After years of toil, this is their day in the sun

By Shreevatsa Nevatia

Given how often art gets called 'content' these days, there is little point in ratcheting up a nostalgia for those good old days when we appreciated art instead of consuming it. With everything—from cinema and music to painting and literature—now available on your smartphone, it seems a bit old-fashioned and cantankerous to still rage against the machine. We are distracted by gadgets, yes, but we are also nourished by them. The upside of 'content' is that it is always throwing up something novel.