

CLIMATE CHANGE WILL PROD MANY INDIANS TO RELOCATE, WITHIN INDIA AND THEN BECOME ANOTHER REASON FOR THEM TO MOVE ABROAD

geographical node of global opportunity. In the future, we will see Indians all over Central Asia, Russia, Western Europe and even more in Africa.

The Central Asians are scared out of their wits by the Chinese but they love Bollywood music, they love Indians because the Soviets loved India. Our affinity with these countries is part of our geopolitical history. Central Asia will become one, it will thriving, bringing people in from IT, medicine and agriculture. Russia will import Indian farmers and Asian Europeans will be a whole new generation of millions of Indians growing up in Europe because they are born there. This will be one of the largest growing diasporas in the world. No place in the world has greater labour shortages than Europe, and since Europeans don't like Arabs and Africans, Indians will find opportunities there to thrive. Despite everything we read about racism in Europe, this is happening. Assimilation may seem like a vicious contest, but fusion prevails in the end. Our destiny is to be a global mongrel civilisation. ■

(As told to Shweta Punj)

Parag Khanna is founder of FutureMap and author of MOVE: How Mass Migration Will Reshape the World