

MEDICINE MAN
Siddhartha Mukherjee

out there, news of another shouldn't be too exciting. But given how intimately Sharma writes about Mughals—her Jahangir was a treat—we do have our hopes up.

LORDS OF THE DECCAN
Southern India from the Chalukyas to the Cholas
by Anirudh Kanisetti (Juggernaut)
As a result of our preoccupation with the history of India's Gangetic belt, we often forget the rich stories of the south's Chalukya, Pallava, Rashtrakuta and Chola dynasties. Kanisetti rectifies this.

HOW PRIME MINISTERS DECIDE
by Neerja Chowdhury (Aleph)
How did Indira Gandhi topple the Janata government? When did Narendra Modi agree to demonetisation? Chowdhury has the answers.

ATAL BIHARI VAJPAYEE
by Sagarika Ghose (Juggernaut)
There are many things Vajpayee is remembered for—oratory, poetry, statesmanship—but in Ghose's account, we see that his journey from obscurity to prime-ministership was also one of contradictions.

THIS FORMULATION CALLED DEMOCRACY
by T. M. Krishna (Context)
During the anti-CAA protests in 2019, the national anthem was sung in streets and the tricolour was suddenly more visible. Krishna asks how these symbols can help make a nation.

THE EASTERN GATE
War and Peace in Nagaland, Manipur and India's Far East
by Sudeep Chakravarti (Simon & Schuster)
Chakravarti uses exclusive interviews with rebel leaders, politicians, bureaucrats, army and police personnel to give an insight into the ongoing attempts in Northeast India to transition from war to peace.

THE WORLD
by Simon Sebag Montefiore (Hachette)
If you have read any of Montefiore's books, you would know how much he likes a panoramic view. In this, he will start with prehistoric humans and end in the present!

BURNING QUESTIONS
by Margaret Atwood (Chatto & Windus)
In this sometimes funny, sometimes prescient collection of essays, Atwood finds answers to questions both big and small: How do we live on our planet? What do zombies have to do with authoritarianism?

THE OMINISCIENT CELL
by Siddhartha Mukherjee (Vintage)
Mukherjee's Emperor of All Maladies, won a Pulitzer in 2011. His 2016 book, The Gene, was a breakthrough. He now tells the story of the cell and the birth of cellular medicine.

MEMOIR

In his new memoir, Commissioner for Lost Causes (Penguin), Arun Shourie recalls his encounters with PMs, CMs, judges and editors. In the memoir he is writing for HarperCollins, Saif Ali Khan, we hope, will give us a candid account of what it means to be Pataudi and Bollywood royalty. Speaking Tiger will be releasing the memoirs of Wendy Doniger and Mark Tully. We will likely find a common thread in both accounts—how India can be made one's own.

MYHTOLOGY

SHIVA
An Anthology
edited by Karan Singh (Speaking Tiger)
From Nataraja to Bholenath, Shiva has as many names as he does personalities. This anthology compiles writing about the god that are as varied as he is.

SELF-HELP

FREE FALL
My Experiments with Health and Wellness
by Mallika Sarabhai (Speaking Tiger)
Though Sarabhai covers the self-help gamut—weight-loss, pregnancy, how to quit smoking—in this book, she does so without ever sounding pedantic.

LET ME HIJACK YOUR MIND by Alyque Padamsee (Penguin)
Being published posthumously, the book is being thought of as Padamsee's parting gift. Asking provocative questions, it wars against "stuffy thinking".
