Rahul and his aides didn’t realize in the autumn of 2013 was that their actions were not just undignified, but also once again a case of too little, too late. The narrative of UPA-II being a government that compromised with corruption had already been scripted. No one, not even Rahul Gandhi, could now alter the storyline in the popular imagination.