BJP's GENERALS

THE CENTRAL TEAM

PM Narendra Modi, home minister Amit Shah, BJP president J.P. Nadda, general secretary B.L. Santhosh

The four top leaders control the party campaign and candidate selection while also balancing factionalism and setting the narrative. PM Modi is the face of the campaign in all three states

ELECTION STRATEGIES

Dhanya Parthasarathy, U. Krishnaswamy Sridhar and Suresh Shreyas Bharadwaj

Their outfit Varahe Analytics gathers data and does initial analysis of party prospects, candidates and key issues. Works closely with B.L. Santhosh

Association of Brilliant Minds

Stationed in Lucknow, this faceless team works closely with Shah. Work profile includes surveys, voter profiling, campaign strategy. Asking MPs to contest the polls to nix factionalism was their idea

MADHYA PRADESH

THE SATRAP AND HIS CHALLENGER

Shivraj Singh Chouhan and Narendra Singh Tomar

Union minister Tomar is the successor-in-waiting and an RSS man, but four-time CM Chouhan is no slouch in the intrigue game

EYES OF DELHI

Bhupender Yadav: The Union minister and Shah confidant is working closely in candidate selection, placating the rebels

BACKSTREET BOY

Ashwini Vaishnaw: The election co-in-charge manages the social media campaigns, strategic outreach

SAFFRON MAHARAJA

Jyotiraditya Scindia: His influence or the lack of it in the Gwalior region will impact the final outcome of the polls

RAJASTHAN

THE MAHARANI AND HER CHALLENGER

Vasundhara Raje and Gajendra Singh Shekhawat

Though she hasn't officially been declared the CM face, the ex-royal continues to be the party's tallest leader in the state. Shekhawat is the RSS favourite. The central leadership will take a final call depending on what each of them brings to the final tally

MAN FROM DELHI

Arun Singh

Party general secretary and in-charge of organisation affairs in Rajasthan is tasked with maintaining peace among the different factions of the party in the state

GROUNDSMEN

C.P. Joshi and Chandrashekhar

The low-profile Joshi was picked as state unit chief to minimise rebellion and build the party campaign. The Shah acolyte is supported by state general secretary (organisation) Chandrashekhar. They worked with Arun Singh and other senior leaders to prepare the first list of probable candidates

MODI'S LIEUTENANTS

Pralhad Joshi, Nitin Patel and Kuldeep Bishnoi

From deployment of pravasi teams to stitching booth management plans to designing the door-to-door campaigns, the feedback of these three leaders is indispensable on most issues
