Q+A

YOU GO, GIRL!

Shraddha Kapoor has been on a long break but is looking forward to Stree 2, a movie close to her heart that releases next year

Q. How easy or difficult has it been for you to be a star kid?

Well, I'll be honest, there are certain privileges and I did have my foot in the door. But beyond that, sustaining is something one has to do on one's own steam. Having a famous parent or belonging to a family that's known is one thing but being able to carve a name for your own self is quite another.

Q. And how have you overcome these challenges?

The one thing I have always believed in is to embrace my individuality and follow my passions fearlessly. In a world filled with constant comparisons and pressures, it's important to stay true to yourself and pursue what makes you happy. My goals are set according to my strengths, and I am unafraid of taking risks.

Q. What is keeping you busy currently?

Last year was busier with so many releases that I didn't have time to breathe. This year, people are wondering what I'm doing. I am making an effort to slow down and recalibrate. I'd like to believe that with the work I have done, I've exposed myself to a variety of roles. I am at a cusp where I want to do stuff I haven't done before.

Q. Which projects are you looking forward to?

There's activism work I would be sharing soon.... On the film front, Stree 2 releases early next year and that's a project really close to my heart. There will be Pankaj Parashar's Chaalbaaz, and that has me super-excited. There are a couple of iconic films that are being redone that I am privileged to be a part of.
