is leading 18 per cent of the start-ups in India, as per a report published by Nasscom in collaboration with the global management firm Zinnov in 2022.

As markets become borderless, Indian B-schools also need to make themselves globally relevant, with a comprehensive reform in the design and scope of curriculum, upgrade of infrastructure, technological innovation and diversification of student intake. Despite the large business education ecosystem, only four Indian B-schools—the three IIMs at Bangalore, Ahmedabad and Calcutta, and ISB—have found a place among the top 100 institutes in the Quacquarelli Symonds (QS) World University Global MBA Rankings 2024.

As the global economic order shifts towards Asia, more Indian B-schools must soon populate such global lists. With a massive young population, India is in a unique position to emerge as the hub for manpower to manage the future of global business. The focus, as the India Today Group-MDRA survey highlights, should be on qualitative improvement rather than the numerical expansion. That's the right direction towards becoming the third largest economy in the world. ■
