

Prateek Jain and Gautam Seth

Co-founders, Klove Studio
www.klovestudio.com

Set up with an idea of experimenting with elements and light and exploring their form across several dimensions, Klove Studio since inception (in 2005) has created large-scale installations, designed bespoke projects, and given glass products a new meaning. Prateek Jain and Gautam Seth love to explore how form and function is expressed in spatial design, which then plays on to personify emotion in the human form. Designing for them is a sense of fulfillment, a maelstrom of sensations. "It's astonishing to witness blown glass take shape. The procedure is simple, but the combination of lighting ideas and aesthetic execution transforms every item's characteristics," they say. Their recent collection, for example, is inspired by the exotic landscape of Goa. They have also launched collecktklove, an extension to their mother brand.

PRICE ₹5,000 to ₹50,000 (collektklove pieces), ₹5 lakh onwards (blown glass installations)

Photograph by RAJWANT RAWAT