

Paul Chadda, a kitchen and wardrobe designer is also the founder of Blissspace, a modular kitchen design and build studio. www.blissspace.in can list items like this: 12 pairs of trousers, 6 shirts (hung), 20 T-shirts (folded), 8 long dresses (hung), 6 watches, 12 belts, 10 handkerchiefs, 8 jumpers (folded), an underwear drawer, 4 sets of nightwear (folded). This detailed inventory, will give a clear understanding of your storage needs and requirements.

Design and Layout

Your wardrobe should reflect your personal style and complement the overall design of your home. Consider the aesthetics, materials, and finishes that resonate with you. As for the layout, think in terms or organisation and functionality. Group similar items together; such as formal wear, casual attire, and accessories. Consider adjustable shelving and hanging rods to accommodate changing needs. Use clear containers or drawer dividers to keep smaller items organised. Make use of vertical space with double hanging rods or pull-out accessory racks. Prioritise frequently used items at eye level for convenience.

However, to ensure the longevity of your wardrobe, consider the maintenance requirements. High-quality materials and finishes may require less care, but regular cleaning and inspection are still essential to prevent wear and tear.

Light it Right

Consider incorporating LED lighting strips or fixtures inside the wardrobe for proper interior illumination. For walk-in closets, motion-sensor lighting can be a practical and convenient choice. One approach is to install LED profiles vertically on each side of the wardrobe's interior, ensuring maximum illumination. Alternatively, LED profiles can be positioned horizontally on each shelf and within each drawer. In both cases, adding sensors to the wardrobe's shutters and drawers allows the lights to activate automatically when they are opened. To provide overall illumination within the wardrobe's interior, LED spotlights can also be placed at the top of the carcass.

Materials and Finishes

Solid wood is ideal for a classic and timeless appearance. Laminate or melamine is a cost-effective and versatile choice. Mirrored or glass-fronted doors can create a sense of spaciousness and openness. While matte or high-gloss finishes can be chosen based on your aesthetic preferences.

In contemporary wardrobe designs, glass sliding partitions are frequently used to separate the room where a walk-in wardrobe is located. In these set-ups, open seamless carcasses or tinted glass shutters are commonly used as they blend seamlessly with the room divider. Floor-to-ceiling, hinged tinted glass shutters are particularly popular as they provide a modern European look and enhance the perception of space.

Sliding shutters are another favoured choice, available in glass, cane, or PU finishes. These finishes can even be combined within a single shutter, depending on your design requirements and preferences. This approach allows for a versatile and customised wardrobe solution that aligns with both style, aesthetics and functionality.

Tailor Made

Customising your wardrobe allows you to maximise space and tailor it to your specific needs. Professional wardrobe designers can create a bespoke solution that optimises storage and complements your home's architecture. Customisation also offers the flexibility to incorporate unique features, such as pull-out accessories, hidden compartments, or built-in dressing tables.