› Ms. Ajita Italiya

Meet Ajita Italiya, who got married after completing just her HSC. Moving from Gujarat to Mumbai, she entered a new world. A new place, new people and a new family role would have put paid to the ambitions of any woman.

Ajita is made of tougher stuff. She padded up after the birth of her second child, secure in the knowledge that her family responsibilities are well taken care of, to live her life and strive for her personal ambitions.

Ajita acquired a diploma in Hotel Management. She is also a Certified Image Management Professional from the Counselle, Utah, USA.

Her passion for food met a match in her keen fashion sense. She started a multi designer store named Ajiliyaa in Surat which caters to more than 300 designers from all around India. She is also a source of support and encouragement to upcoming young designers, providing them a platform at her store. She says," I am doing my bit for the nation's nextgen, being vocal for local". Knowing her, one can expect a line of her own.

While the creations of the top notch designers from India Fashion Week rule the shop, the Cafe there has its own avid following. The cozy health Cafe The Boho boasts of a curated menu that is pegged on a Vedic Kitchen concept, serving a vegan line. Ajita's passion for health and food meld into one to create a unique food destination that she guides and mentors. That's not all. Ajita is India's first lady to cycle across Spiti Valley. She got felicitated by our PM Narendra Modi for it. She is also the first lady to cycle to Arunachal Pradesh in Feb, 2019.

Ajita has authored a book "Sincerely Yours", which is a diary of every woman. It was published by the biggest publication of Gujarat i.e. Image Publications. She has also launched music albums with her singer husband. It was launched by Venus Records. Realising the importance of the education that she was deprived of, she is working to promote it as a trustee of the very reputed Sanskar Bharti School.

ATIFA AKBAR – BOXING UP ÉLAN FOR THE MASSES

Contentment is not for the ambitious. It is less of competition and more of the overwhelming desire to understand their true potential that drives these sets of people. Atifa Akbar, the Co-Founder of Eclat range of beauty products is no exception.

Atifa Akbar's journey is a quest to find, embrace and celebrate her true, authentic self. In the process she managed to wake up the entrepreneur in her, playing a significant role in establishing Eclat, an Indian Skincare Brand. The first choice of cosmetologists and an absolute favorite of all beauty and skincare enthusiasts, it has achieved tremendous success in quite a short period of time.

From having no previous knowledge of digital marketing to learning, practicing and eventually using the right tricks and techniques, Atifa has proved her credentials to become the digital head of the company. "In every start-up, the founders personally handle all the major areas and departments. So when Sandeep Gupta decided to oversee the manufacturing unit, I dived right into the depths of the internet to learn the ABCs of digital marketing", recollects Atifa.

Atifa shares, "I am ambitious and still homely, I take care of my business and still give time to my kids. Over time, I have realized that the idea of sticking to one label and sitting in one box your whole life, must have been invented by and for a bunch of lazy people. This awareness has liberated me and pushed me a step closer to the person I am so very excited to become".
