

grow in their homestead farms, Rs 150 per family per month was provided.

In October 2021, the entitlement amount was increased from Rs 830 to Rs 1,000, which was further hiked to Rs 1250 in October 2022. The additional amount of Rs 250 was provided as a subsidy for 50 units of electricity directly being credited into the account of the beneficiaries. The largest state-sponsored Direct Benefit Transfer (DBT) scheme of Assam has a robust beneficiary selection mechanism. The digitized work process with minimal human interface has leveraged the last mile banking and mobile penetration to ensure timely delivery of services on the 10th of every month. There is also a voluntary opt-out provision. Families, which voluntarily opt out from the scheme, get an appreciation letter from the chief minister.

The government has also evolved a strict mechanism to ensure that the scheme reaches only to deserving beneficiaries and ineligible ones are removed. In August 2022, the Orunodoi month was celebrated during which social audit exercise for verification and authentication of beneficiaries at field level was conducted. The door-to-door verification by verification teams, which comprised students and other non-officials, did the purification of the beneficiary list. The ration cards of the beneficiaries were seeded with Aadhar. Approximately 2.25 lakh existing beneficiaries were found ineligible due to various reasons. It was an unprecedented exercise which saw paperless survey of 20 lakh families by non-officials with the help of an Android-based mobile application, supported by a 24X7 technical support help desk.

On December 14, 2022, the government launched Orunodoi 2.0, to facilitate addition of 10.54 lakh new beneficiaries, taking the total number of beneficiaries to 27.61 lakh. The following categories of people were additionally included in the scheme:

- Dibyangjan (including male) and transgender
- All beneficiaries of Deen Dayal Dibyangjan Pension Scheme and Indira Miri Universal Widow Pension Scheme
- Households having member, who is dwarf or ailing from cerebral palsy / thalassaemia / hemophilia / leprosy / autism spectrum disorder

While the total yearly outlay was fixed at Rs 4,200 crore, the objective of the second

“We are simply following the path shown by Prime Minister Modiji. Development is meaningless if we cannot bring smiles to those at the bottom of the socio-economic pyramid.”
