A portrait of Malik Ambar (1548–1626), painted in gold and opaque watercolour on paper, by Mughal artist Hashim circa 1620. Malik, who was born in Ethiopia and was brought to India as a slave, rose to become a powerful military commander in the Ahmadnagar kingdom and thwarted several attacks from the Mughals in north India. This folio is from a set of paintings called ‘The Minto Album’ that was purchased at an auction in 1925 and subsequently divided between the Victoria and Albert Museum in London and the Chester Beatty Library in Dublin.
