While the pandemic threw a curveball, forcing Shaheed Sukhdev College of Business Studies (SSCBS), University of Delhi, to adapt to the new normal with digital whiteboards in place of blackboards and online platforms instead of in-person teaching, the college took it as a challenge.

Hence, several steps were undertaken to make the most of online teaching, and remote access to study resources was provided to students and faculty. To ensure that the college experience was not compromised, over 40 student societies were encouraged to organise academic and co-curricular activities.

The college believes in real world case-based teaching and knows that it happens outside classrooms. Its flagship programmes, Bachelor of Business Administration and Bachelor of Management Studies, not only provide the theoretical framework but also impart practical skills. Its students have won several competitions, such as the Har-
