GURUSPEAK

"To address stress among students during the lockdown, the SRCC Counselling Services Committee pursued a coordinated strategy. Webinars on emotional well-being were conducted" international workshops, events, symposiums and conferences were organised by the student societies besides philanthropic endeavours. New student societies, as chapters of global agencies such as CRY, Girl Up and International Finance Student Association (IFSA), were also started. Two YouTube channels—ARPIT National Resource Centre SRCC and ARPIT Refresher Course in Commerce SRCC—were created. These together have some 3,000 subscribers and their videos have got almost 300,000 views.

SIMRIT KAUR, Principal, SRCC

"To facilitate continuous and active learning, the college library procured several books on research, including books on research methodology, data analysis and publication. The college also procured research databases and IT technologies to further strengthen the research culture," says Simrit Kaur, the principal of SRCC. The college used its inhouse research 'Business Analyst' to disseminate information about ongoing research work. Students were encouraged
