BEAUTY BEYOND BRESSON
PG 69

EVERY INCH A HERO
PG 70

LEISURE

THE CITY THAT WASN'T
PG 72

Q&A WITH ABHAY DEOL
PG 76

JOYFUL REPOSE
A photograph taken by Raghu Rai in Paris

PHOTOGRAPHY

FROM THE OUTSIDE IN

Seen together, RAGHU RAI's pictures of France and Ambassador EMMANUEL LEANIN's photos of India help us delight in our shared humanity

France has always adored Raghu Rai. In 1971, the much-celebrated Henri Cartier-Bresson made it a point to visit Rai's first solo show before Paris's Galerie Delpire got crowded. He, obviously, liked what he saw. He invited Rai home for dinner, and all the while he was in Paris, Bresson sent his colleagues over to keep the young photographer fed and entertained. "He gave me a lot of bhav (importance)," laughs Rai. Upon returning to India, he found a telex message waiting for him. Bresson