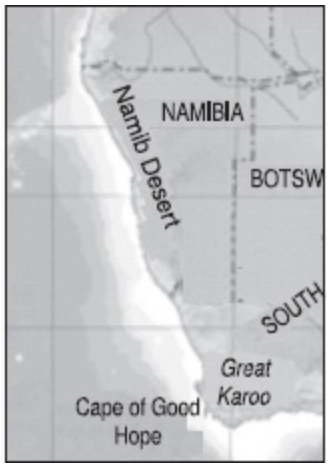
- Indian Subcontinent and African Continent were part of same supercontinent Gondwanaland till about 550 million years ago.

10.

- The Namib is a cool coastal desert in southern Africa. Namib stretches for more than 2000 kilometres along the Atlantic coasts of Angola, Namibia, and South Africa, extending southward from the Carunjamba River in Angola, through Namibia and to the Olifants River in Western Cape, South Africa.
- The Welwitschia plant is considered a living fossil is endemic to Namib Desert.



11.

- The Congo rainforest is the second largest in the world and covers a total area of 1,780,000 km. It is found in Central Africa and also has one of the longest rivers running from within it.
- Congo rainforest: Cameroon, the Central African Republic, the Republic of Congo, the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), Equatorial Guinea, and Gabon.
- The Congo rainforest is also widely recognised for its high levels of biodiversity, characterised with more than 600 tree species and 10,000 animal species. Some of its most famous residents include forest elephants, gorillas, chimpanzees, okapi, and lions.

12.

- Drakensberg: Literally means Dragon Mountains; Easter part of the Great Escapement on Indian Ocean Coast; Spreads over