While Europe, along with Asia and North America were part of Laurasia.

10.

- The Iberian Peninsula, also known as Iberia, is located in the southwest corner of Europe. The peninsula is principally divided between Portugal and Spain, comprising most of their territory, as well as Andorra, small areas of France, and the British overseas territory of Gibraltar. With an area of approximately 596,740 square kilometres, it is both the second largest European peninsula by area, after the Scandinavian Peninsula, and by population, after the Balkan Peninsula.
- In Europe, Scandinavian peninsula is the largest by area and Balkan Peninsula is the largest in term of population.

11.

- Pockets of temperate rain forests are spread in Northwestern Europe (southern Norway to northern Iberia).
- Most of Norway is not in Arctic Circle. Though most of Norway is in Tundra and Taiga biomes, Southwestern part of Norway is home temperate rain forests.
- Temperate rain forests in Europe:

12.

- Kola Peninsula: The Kola Peninsula is a penin sula in the far northwest of Russia. Constituting the bulk of the territory of Murmansk Oblast, it lies almost completely inside the Arctic Circle and is bordered by the Barents Sea in the north and the White Sea in the east and southeast → It has border with Arctic