(c) 3,4,5
(d) 1,2,3,4,5

35. Which of the following are reasons behind rain that falls only 100 miles east of the Pacific may flow to the Atlantic, 2500 miles away?
    1. The geologically young cordilleras of the Andes extend along the entire continent from north to south.
    2. Ancient Guiana and Brazilian highlands, which are much lower in elevation and slope gently to the east.
    3. The basins of the Orinoco, Amazon, and Paraguay-Parana rivers and the plains of the Pampas separate the highlands from one another.
    4. The major drainage divide is far to the west along the crest of the Andes.

    Select the correct option:
    (a) 1,2,3
    (b) 2,3,4
    (c) 1,3,4
    (d) 1,2,3,4

36. Which of the following are correct regarding Brazil current?
    1. In the South Atlantic Ocean, the south equatorial current, flowing from east to west, splits into two branches near Cape de Sao Roque.
    2. The south flowing Brazil current swings eastward at about latitude 35°S due to easterlies.
    3. A small branch of West Wind Drift splits and flows between Argentinian coast and Falkland Islands.
    4. Falkland cold current mixes with warm Brazil current at the southern tip of Brazil.

    Select the correct option:
    (a) 1,3
    (b) 2,3,4
    (c) 1,3,4
    (d) 1,2,3,4

37. Which of the following are effects of El-Nino?
    1. An El Nino is associated with warm and very wet weather months in April-October along the coasts of northern Peru and