International Container Transhipment Terminal, Kochi in the low performing category.

32. Statement I: CORRECT—Telecommunication has been recognised world over as a powerful tool of development and poverty reduction through empowerment of masses. Growth in the telecom sector in India remains strong over the last few years on the back of strong consumer demand and supportive policies of the Government.

From a low of 93.30 crore in 2013-2014, total telephone connections in India touched 118.34 crore in 2018-19, registering a growth of 26.84%. As on March 2019, the total subscription stood at 118.34 crore out of which 51.42 crore connections were in the rural areas and 66.91 crore in the urban areas.

Statement II: CORRECT—The wireless telephony now constitutes 98.17% of all subscriptions whereas share of landline telephones now stands at only 1.83%. The overall tele-density in India stands at 90.10%, the rural tele-density being 57.50% and urban tele-density being 159.66% at the end of March 2019.

The private sector dominated overall connections with a share of 88.72% (104.99 crore) at the end of March'19 while the share of public sector was 11.28% (13.35 crore).

33. Statement I: CORRECT—Making India 5G ready by 2020: The world is at the cusp of a next generation of wireless technology-5G. The 5G has been conceived as a foundation for expanding the potential of the Networked Society. The landscape is expanding to include massive scale of "smart things" to be interconnected.

For India, 5G provides an opportunity for industry to reach out to global markets, and consumers to gain with the economies of scale and citizens to reap the benefits of doorstep governance and availability of services, medical support, benefits transfers, education, entertainment and build a digital payment, knowledge and services economy.

Statement II: CORRECT—13-digit Machine to Machine (M2M) Numbering Plan for M2M communication: M2M Communications /Internet of Things (IoT) refers to technologies which involve