J&K:
DELIMITATION
DILEMMAS PG 10

UPFRONT

WAR SCRAP:
DORMANT BUT
DEADLY PG 12

Photos: AFP

IN THE RING US President Joe Biden (left) and his Russian counterpart Vladimir Putin

THE UKRAINE CRISIS

WHY INDIA SHOULD WORRY

GUEST COLUMN

KANWAL SIBAL

The Ukraine crisis reflects the West's failure to establish durable structures of peace and security in Europe after the end of the Cold War and the demise of the Soviet Union. The Cold War mentality has persisted, reflected in the relentless expansion of NATO eastwards to guard against a resurgent Russia, whose size, resources and military strength despite its economic weakness weigh as realities. The European Union (EU) too has expanded steadily eastwards as an economic barrier against Russia.

Early efforts by Boris Yeltsin and even current Russian president Vladimir Putin to affirm Russia's European vocation were rebuffed. Russia had to become a European-style democracy to be accepted as a 'European' partner. The promotion of colour revolutions in Georgia and Ukraine, in particular, were aimed at encouraging a similar 'democratic' churn in Russia.