railways are embedded in the Indian psyche.

With the recent developments in the sector, it is now the age of metro trains and high speed rail. Indian Railways seems to have come full circle from Arthur Cotton’s experiments on the Red Hill Railway near Chennai to the manufacture of the hi-tech, hi-speed Train 18, the Vande Bharat Express, by Sudhanshu Mani and his team, again, near Chennai. I must say the journey of Indian Railways has now indeed picked up pace. Godspeed!
