> “It was encouraging to see children pitch some creative ideas which when scaled have the potential of bringing about tremendous social impact. This programme, for the students of classes 11-12, is going to form the basis of the country's progress. Through this, children will not run after jobs, but jobs will come after these children.”

BUSINESS BLASTERS on TV now!

Looking for next-generation entrepreneurs, Delhi Government is showcasing some of its young business stars in India's first of its kind televised event. This gives students of Delhi Government schools the opportunity to present their business ideas to investors and get investment capital to take their start-ups to the next level. The show is providing a launchpad for students' business ideas, boosting confidence and developing a problem-solving mindset in them, which will benefit India's economy in the future.

Highly successful entrepreneurs like Abhiraj Singh Bhal - Co-Founder and CEO of Urban Company, Nitin Saluja - Founder of Chaayos, Dr. Rajeev Saraf - CEO, Lepton Software, Sairee Chahal - Founder, CEO of SHEROES and more, are judges on the show. By pitching their ideas and answering tough questions on feasibility, scaling-up, customer acquisition, pricing strategies and more, students seek financial investment. Judges have been so impressed that they have offered not just capital but also mentorship, internship opportunities and placed advance orders.

Watch the TV episodes to see how Delhi Government school students convinced business leaders of their ideas to secure funding and mentorship.
