

HOW VHPL RESTRUCTURED REAL ESTATE MARKET AND MADE ROOM FOR THE NEXT-GEN

We all know that home is where the heart is. The company that resides at the vertex of real estate in Hyderabad is Vertex Homes.

Vertex Homes Pvt Ltd (VHPL) is the brainchild of two entrepreneurs, V V R Varma and C G Murali Mohan, who set foot into Hyderabad in 1994 with a vision to revolutionise the real estate market. While Varma is more involved with land acquisitions and liasioning, Murali Mohan handles finance, administration, sales and marketing. The partners complemented each other well to help the group sustain and make an impeccable mark in the industry. "Our effort has been geared to delight our customers by providing various real estate solutions as required," said V.V.R. Varma, Managing Director of VHPL.

"From the very beginning, it was an unorganized sector, all payments were in cash, no order for the labour and their welfare and in many other aspects. Using our experience we tried to organize the sector," said Murali Mohan Joint Managing Director. Tracking the changes through 27 years, he added that the industry initially dealt with smaller volume and manual operations dominating daily workload. "Today, the volumes have gone up to such a large extent that they necessitate mechanised operations," he continued. In fact earlier Materials were procured at the site depending on the projects and now, every material is procured from the factory as and when you require," Murali Mohan elaborated.

What started with 8 employees is now home to 300+ employees and may reach even 500 in the near future. "Trust, reliability and innovation have been the driving factors in ensuring the company's success," said Varma. "Isn't consistency the biggest concern?" he questioned. "Right from the costs incurred, the rate at which we are selling each project to what we deliver in each of our projects with world-class specifications, etc - we stick to what we promise."

The company prides itself in encouraging the second generation leaders. The sons of the two entrepreneurs gained exposure abroad and returned home to take on the reins of the establishment. "It's a professional company. We have been interested in it from childhood, and here we are to make ourselves part of this family business," said Venkata Vivek who is a second-generation entrepreneur and is part of the Executive Team at VHPL. "It is only expected of the next gen, to bring in fresh ideas, original or adaptations of the latest changes in the industry, in their own fashion."

"The land costs are high in the city there is no difference in price for the customer while buying the project. This only means that there's more investment for the builder."

Vertex Homes is an organisation of many firsts. "We were the first in the twin cities of Hyderabad and Secunderand to establish hoardings for our projects. And we are proud to say that we have evolved from that level of traditional marketing strategies to the new age tools of social media marketing," said, V. Phanindra Vasu, who is part of the Executive Management Team at Vertex Homes Pvt Ltd.

Through the process of micro planning and identification of location, at Vertex we constantly strive to create futuristic and environment-friendly living spaces that foster vibrant communities across the country by adopting latest trends. For instance, we will be coming up fully integrated township in Tukkuguda this will be ultra with an ultra-luxury project with advanced infrastructure and superior lifestyle. Tukkuguda is a fast-growing residential location and will be the next kokpet, said Venkata Vivek

VHPL achieved a major breakthrough in the Hyderabad market with the introduction of a dedicated customer service initiative - a separate department was set up to tend to the requirements of customers.

Its impact in the market was felt when VHPL started reaching out to the manufacturers rather than the dealers. "This step was taken to get rid of the middlemen and in-turn reduce the cost of purchase for the customers," said, Phanindra Vasu.

The young entrepreneurs of VHPL strike a perfect balance between their modern ideas and the conventional values of the company. "It purely depends on what you can handle with the core set of values you have imbibed. The best way to deal with it is to help values evolve with changing situations. And most importantly, always, under-promise and over-deliver. Don't
