gone to St. Augustine, and through him influenced the Christianity of the day.*

T h e rediscovery by Europe, during the past century and a half, of Indian philosophy created a powerful impression on European philosophers and thinkers. Schopenhauer, the pessimist, is often quoted in this connection. 'From every sentence (of the U p a - nishads) deep, original and sublime thoughts arise, and the whole is pervaded by a high and holy and earnest s p i r i t . . . . In the whole world there is no s t u d y . . . so beneficial and so elevating as that of the U p a n i s h a d s . . . . (They) are products of the highest

Romain Rolland has given a long Note (as an appendix to his book on Vivekananda),*

'On the Hellenic-Christian Mysticism of the First Centuries and its Relationship to Hindu Mysticism.' He points out that 'a hundred facts testify to how great an extent the East was mingled with Hellenic thought during the second century of our era.'

of the people.' And again: ' T h e study of the Upanishads has been the solace of my life, it will be the solace of my death.'

Writing on this, M a x Muller says: 'Schopenhauer was the last
