A cable would bring me by air to her within a week.

Four or five days remained before the date fixed for my departure. Indira, who was at school at Bex nearby, was coming over to spend those last days with us. T h e doctor came to me a n d suggested that I should postpone my return by a week or ten days. More he would not say. I agreed immediately and m a d e another reservation in a subsequent K . L . M . plane.

As these last days went by a subtle change seemed to come over K a m a l a . T h e physical condition was much the same, so far as we could see, but her mind appeared to pay less attention to her physical environment. She would tell me that someone was calling her, or that she saw some figure or shape enter the room when I saw none.

Early on the morning of February 28th, she breathed her last. Indira was there, and so was our faithful friend and constant companion during these months, Dr. M. Atal.

A few other friends came from neighbouring towns in Switzerland, and we took her to the crematorium in Lausanne.

Within a few minutes that fair body and that lovely face, which used to smile so often and so well, were reduced to ashes. A small
