hospitals. Apart from minor diseases, free treatment will be done for serious diseases such as cancer. Under the provisions of the Act, one will get free treatment in emergency situation in those private medical colleges and hospitals that have been given land at concessional rates along with hospitals run through trust and those who voluntarily want to join the scheme along with the government hospitals.

The ambit of the Right to Health has been expanded in such a way that people residing in remote areas can get the facility of free treatment within their vicinity.

There is no meaning for the Right to Health if the health infrastructure remains limited or there is no possibility of expansion. The Ashok Gehlot government in its tenure made a wide expansion in the health services so that more and more people can be brought into the ambit in case of giving the Right to Health. In this period, 1740 new sub-centres were built and the number of beds increased by more than 8000. In the last four years, 547 PHCs were upgraded to CHCs. Apart from this, 28 new districts, 67 sub-districts, and 10 satellite hospitals were opened along with 42 trauma centers and 8 mother and child units. An amount of Rs 2154 crore has been spent till May 2023 in the state in the construction of new hospitals, CHCs, health centers and residential buildings.

This is how, after preparations for four years, the Right to Health was introduced in the state so that more and more people of Rajasthan benefited. Under the Right to health, consulting a doctor along with OPD and IPD is included. Apart from this, facilities of medicines, tests, and emergency services are free. The emergency includes transportation, ambulance, procedure, and other related services. The patients and their family members will be informed about the diseases, all kinds of possible treatments, special treatment being given or will be given, different tests to be conducted, and the expected time. During the treatment, the doctor will update about the progress of treatment to the patients and their family members. This is so because the treatment is done in a transparent manner and the family members remain prepared to deal with any kind of apprehensions.

It has been generally noticed that hospitals hesitate to extend treatment to accident victims. It has been addressed in the Right to Health. This Act says that in case of emergency, the identified private hospitals have to immediately start the treatment. If the victim is not in the capacity to pay then the hospitals cannot deny treatment. Later the private hospitals will be free to get the treatment expenses compensated by the state government. If any patient has to be shifted to any other hospital then arranging an ambulance has also been made a compulsory part of this law. Generally, it is seen that in medico-legal cases, the hospital waits for the police or to get NOC from the police and precious time is lost in fulfilling the formalities. But in the Right to Health, this has been thought about. The law says that in medico-legal the hospital will immediately start treatment and need not have to wait for the NOC from the police or for writing of the report. Similarly, in case of complex surgeries or chemotherapy, the approval of the family members will be taken in advance and then treatment will be started so as to avoid unnecessary disputes later on both sides (doctors and patients). The relationship of trust between the doctor and patient is maintained, which has been taken care of in this law. It would be the right of the family members of the patient to know the rate of every facility in the hospital and about the tax and other things. The hospital will have to give such information. The privacy of the patients is also taken care of in this law, which says that the private hospital will not make the information of the disease of the patient public. The information of the disease will be given only to the patient and to the close relative on the consent of the patient.

Generally, it is seen that if any patient dies the family members start levelling allegations of carelessness on the hospital, many times untoward incidents like assault etc take place. In the new law, an arrangement has been made that the family members will not misbehave and do any such action against any doctors or nurses, ambulance driver or any other assistant employees of the hospital. It is to be mentioned that currently, 1.38 crore out of 1.50 crore families are linked with the Mukhyamantri Chiranjeevi Swasthya Bima Yojana and Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot wants to cover 100% of the residents of the state in this scheme.

According to the experts, the Right to Health is a big game-changing idea and if it is implemented in the entire country then it will prove as a lifesaver to the population of 140 crore people. This initiative was taken by Rajasthan and Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot has become its proponent.
