ONE FUTURE

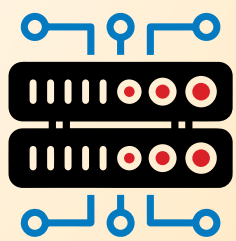

CONSENSUS ON UKRAINE

- The most notable achievement of Indian diplomats at the summit was to make the statement on Ukraine palatable to all
- Without naming Russia, and judiciously using words like the war 'in' (and not 'against') Ukraine, the Delhi Declaration mentioned the UN Charter, and said that "states must refrain from threat or use of force to seek territorial acquisition against the territorial integrity...of any state"

CRYPTO CURRENCY

- Endorsement of Financial Stability Board's advice on regulation of crypto currencies, crucial meeting in Oct. 2023
- Implementation of Crypto Asset Reporting Framework

DIGITAL INFRASTRUCTURE

- G20 Financial Inclusion Action Plan for 2024-26 shaped under India's presidency will build a secure, inclusive digital public infrastructure and enable a safe digital economy
- G20 toolkit on cyber education; plan to harness AI responsibly

ECONOMIC FORUM

- Statement that though G20 is a forum for economic matters and not for solving geopolitical issues, security matters do impact world economy
- Condemnation of terrorism, support to FATFs to target terrorism financing, safe havens

MEMBERSHIP OF THE AFRICAN UNION

- As the avowed voice of the Global South, the Delhi G20 provided smaller nations unprecedented chance to voice their opinion
- Under India's presidency, 55-nation African Union granted full G20 membership
- Commitment to support migrants/ refugees

MULTILATERAL INSTITUTIONS

- Call for reform of Multilateral Development Banks to maximise their beneficial impact on the Global South
- A strong IMF at the centre of the global financial safety net
- Additional $200 billion for lending in next decade
- Commitment to WTO reforms

lience of developing countries. Here too, much of the credit should go to PM Modi, who led from the front. Xi must have regretted not attending because Modi emerged as the unchallenged voice of the Global South. Another feather in the cap came from the Green Pact to tackle the threat of climate change. Instead of just 100 billion dollars that the developed world had committed annually under the Paris Climate Change agreement, the G20 pushed for a more realistic $6 trillion by 2030 to keep global temperatures below danger levels. An action plan to accelerate the progress in implementing the sustainable development goals (SDGs) was chalked out. A road map for the much-needed revamp of Multinational Development Banks (MDB) like the World Bank also met approval and a Capital Adequacy Framework (CAF) was set, which pushed the banks' lending headroom to $200 billion.

As important was that the G20 brought Digital Public Infrastructure or DPI as an integral part of financial inclusion. India's achievements on this front were lauded and an action plan for DPI implementation in developing countries in the next four years was approved. Apart from gender empowerment, the New Delhi G20 summit also pushed for a more balanced

"PM MODI WAS CLEAR THAT INDIA'S G20 SHOULD RESULT IN ACTIONABLE OUTCOMES AND THAT INDIA SHOULD LEAVE A LASTING LEGACY. WE ARE PUSHING FOR THEIR IMPLEMENTATION"
