THE CANNY ORGANISER

BECAUSE as president of the world's largest political party, he has carved out a space for himself despite working in the shadow of the Modi-Shah duo

BECAUSE although the party took a beating in Karnataka, Nadda did lead the BJP to election victories in Uttarakhand, UP, Goa, Manipur and Gujarat, not to mention the coups in Maharashtra and MP

FREE FLOATER To maintain his health, Nadda has gone back to his first love, swimming, and a controlled low-carb, high-protein diet

BECAUSE Nadda has framed the BJP organisational structure right down to the level of the voter list. Today, there is more space for women, OBCs, Dalits, tribals and younger leaders in the party structure

← 9

J.P. NADDA, 62

PRESIDENT, BJP

Illustration by SIDDHANT JUMDE

Illustration by GAURAV SARJERAO

10 ARVIND KEJRIWAL, 54

CHIEF MINISTER, DELHI ↑

CAPITAL INSTINCT

BECAUSE he has turned the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) into a national party in less than a decade. After the record second win in Delhi, his party also swept Punjab last year. The victory in the close Municipal Corporation of Delhi polls cemented his position as a regular thorn in the BJP side

TWEET, TWEET Kejriwal has 27 million followers on Twitter, more than any other CM or Opp-osition leader

BECAUSE AAP has built a new political model for success, blending service delivery with freebies. The focus on affordable health-care and quality school education has earned the Delhi CM a loyal voter base

BECAUSE despite two AAP ministers being in jail on corruption charges, Kejriwal is still at his combative best, even baiting PM Modi on his educational qualifications. The recent Supreme Court judgment giving the AAP government in Delhi control over the transfer and posting of officers has added to his confidence

By Kaushik Deka, Anilesh S. Mahajan, Prashant Srivastava, Romita Datta and Amitabh Srivastava