1

MUKESH AMBANI, 66

CHAIRMAN & MANAGING DIRECTOR, RELIANCE INDUSTRIES

Illustration by SIDDHANT JUMDE

BLAZING FORCE

BECAUSE he is a visionary who plays the big game and excels at it. His net worth of $87.9 billion (Rs 7.2 lakh crore) makes him Asia's richest person in Forbes's reckoning. His canny helmsmanship of India's largest private enterprise allows him to retain his august perch as the biggest daddy of them all. That eye-popping m-cap of Rs 16.7 lakh crore (May 16) and revenues of Rs 9.7 lakh crore (FY23) aren't a fluke. His taxes alone total Rs 1.9 lakh crore

BECAUSE he is India's biggest retailer, with Reliance Retail counting 65.6 mn sq. ft of retail space across 18,000-plus outlets, and some 250 mn registered, and happy, customers. Its gross revenue of Rs 2.6 lakh crore is a bonus

BECAUSE Reliance Jio, launched in 2016, trumps geography and class barriers like nothing else. If it swept hitherto-untouched swathes of rural India as it attained numero uno status (with 439.3 mn+ subscribers), its 5G footprint will go pan-India by the end of this year

BECAUSE OTT app JioCinema recorded a whopping 1.5 bn views on the opening weekend of Indian Premier League 2023. Network18 remains one of India's largest media firms (revenues: Rs 7,266 crore). And Jio Financial Services is making a bold solo sortie on the bourses

WELL-INFORMED He taps into an international brains trust and is up to date with new technologies and global developments

BECAUSE Reliance has committed Rs 75,000 crore to green solutions. Targets: 20GW captive consumption of solar energy by 2025, net carbon neutrality by 2035. Fully integrated gigafactories at Jamnagar will churn out the goodies—panels, storage systems, electrolysers and fuel cells