ANAND MAHINDRA, 68

CHAIRMAN, MAHINDRA GROUP

In Cruise Control

BECAUSE after having stepped down from his executive role to become the non-executive chairman of M&M, the dapper and witty Mahindra now plays the role of "conscience keeper of the Mahindra Group". The $19.7 billion (Rs 1.6 lakh crore) group with sales in 100 countries has presence in over 20 sectors, including passenger and commercial vehicles, farm equipment, tech and finance services, defence and real estate

BECAUSE M&M has launched back-to-back blockbuster SUVs—five since April '20—and is a market leader in the segment with a 20.6 per cent share

SHARING HIS DELIGHT Always fascinated by unique Indian innovations, Anand Mahindra never fails to share something that catches his eye with his 10.5 million followers on Twitter

BECAUSE he initiated the Nanhi Kali programme, which, over the past two decades, has provided over half a million underprivileged girls access to high-quality education. Naandi Foundation, an NGO for educating girls of which he is chairman, also focuses on skilling youth and providing sustainable livelihoods to small farmers. Mahindra is also on the board of The Rise Fund, a $2 bn (Rs 16,440 cr.) impact fund

BECAUSE the Mahindra Blues Festival, an annual blues music extravaganza sponsored by M&M, is one of the most awaited events in Mumbai's cultural calendar
