Chandni Kapadia - Redefining possiblilities for women

There are people who break stereotypes because they believe in bettering themselves. There are people who love to challenge themselves on what all can they achieve. In Chandni Kapadia, you have a woman who belongs to both the categories to evolve as a role model for others to emulate. After achieving all this, she still has lined up a list of things to do. That's CK for you.

Right from when Chandni Kapadia ventured out on her own to foreign lands as a teenager to seek experience and learn fashion, it has been a journey enriched with new challenges, exciting opportunities and learnings galore, paving way for newer and more empowering roles in her life – ranging from being the Asia Pacific Head or Country head for various luxury brands to being their consultant or being an Executive Director at a University or National Head for WICCI Design Council. There is a saying "When the going gets tough, put one foot in front of the other and just keep going". Chandni seems to have done just that, rising to the occassion admirably to be called upon to helm newer situations and roles.

The beauty of her career has indeed been the diverse hats she has donned in geographies that span virtually every region of the globe. Chandni's road towards being a Gamechanger began since the day she decided that she would be different from the others, since the day she decided she would be her own Boss!! She says "I crave for challenges that excite me and give me a sense of satisfaction of having done something good". And the toughest challenge for her as a leader and an entrepreneur, she says, has been that of being a woman. She says, "There are bound to be times when one tends to feel low or not at their best." But she has always looked these challenges and criticisms in the face and marched ahead unfazedly.

Today, when she looks back at her journey from working for a company to being a consultant of these companies, she says "There is nothing that I probably wouldn't do again. However, there are things that I would do in a different way."

CK has been recognized globally for her work & contribution towards entrepreneurship, fashion and education with numerous awards like World Women Leadership Congress Award, Black Swan Award for Women Empowerment, Leaders of Change award and acknowledged by top magazines like Economic Times, Outlook, Forbes, Business Today and Fortune India to her credit.

She says "Today I am at a stage of my career where I want to work more for women and with women". Chandni choose to work with Teams that are led by women and consist of women as they are bound to put their best in their jobs and at the same time are kind and hardworking who always support each other's dreams and voices.

Chandni feels fortunate to have met many people who believe and support similar causes on empowering people especially women around her which led her to work towards many organizations like WICCI India, Rotary and other NGOs. CK quips "It has required a lot of gut, sheer dedication and will for the life I have today, and I would have had it no other way; So for any young mind who seeks to succeed in life, there is no alternative to working hard with dedication and standing your ground and success will gradually follow."

Aptly put we say. After all, here's a woman who is proving that nothing is impossible, time and again.
