Even gods came after creation’s day,
Who really knows, who can truly say
When and how did creation start?
Did He do it? Or did He not?
Only He, up there, knows, maybe;
Or perhaps, not even He.

— Rig Veda 10.129.1-7

One billion members of the Hindu faith inhabit the world today, and although they are spread throughout 150 countries worldwide, most of them still live in India. The colorful stories of many-limbed gods with blue skin and a penchant for battle have survived much longer than any other human mythology to date. Thus, the Vedic values and lifestyle, which are interwoven into Hinduism, remain a pillar of Indian history, culture, and identity.
