The Art of Travel

Kareena Kapoor-Khan is a seasoned traveller with a bucket list that is as exotic as it gets

What is your favourite travel destination?
That's a tough one! Switzerland is a forever favourite for both Saif and me. I prefer beaches for fun with friends and family. London, New York and Dubai are my favourite shopping destinations. So 'all-time favourite' depends on the purpose of travel! (Laughs.) In India, my favourite destinations are Ladakh and Rajasthan. I have been to Ladakh for so many shoots and it surprises me every time. I love Rajasthani food and the colour one sees everywhere!

How do you manage those effortless airport looks?
I never skip sleep before and after a flight. I got used to jet lag early in life. Even now if it hits, I catch up on sleep and hydrate, which helps minimise exhaustion. The first thing I do when I reach a destination is have my green tea! It calms me down.

Any exotic food experiences you've had while travelling?
I prefer simple ghar ka khana over exotic foods. That said, I come from a family of foodies, so I am fond of my Italian and my red wine. I am careful about what I eat. When in doubt, I opt for vegetarian fare.

What is the most valuable lesson you've learned from your travels?
That the real lessons are not in books! We read so much stuff that we hardly ever apply! Now I look back and think that I should've learnt at least one foreign language. Or photography. Or an adventure sport.

What are the top five destinations on your bucket list?
I want to do China as well as Machu Picchu. We just did Masai Mara. Russia, perhaps. And why not Antarctica—just for the adventure! In India, I want to explore the Northeast, especially Meghalaya and the tea gardens.
