

PARVKAR SINGH, a.k.a. PARY DULAI, ISYF

Based in Surrey, he runs a Punjabi TV channel and is alleged to be working closely with the ISYF chief's Canada-based son Bhagat Brar. Was close to Nijjar and has had contacts with Pakistan- and UK-based pro-Khalistanis. Booked in 2017 for supplying weapons to a terror module in Amritsar.

SULINDER SINGH VIRK, ISYF

A Malaysian Sikh who migrated to Canada, he resides in Brampton and is alleged to be associated with Sikh radicals based in Toronto. Also in contact with Pakistan-based BKI chief Wadhawa Singh. He is charged with raising a terror module, which was busted by Punjab Police in 2017.

MANDEEP SINGH DHALIWAL, 34, KTF

Moved to Canada from Ludhiana in 2012. While based in Surrey, he is said to have been radicalised by, and later received arms training from, Nijjar. Was allegedly sent back to Punjab in 2016 to carry out targeted killings of Hindu right-wing leaders. Faces six FIRs for criminal/terrorist activities.

HARPREET SINGH, 59
Pro-Khalistani activist

A trucker, he is based in Brampton. Migrated from Mukerian, Punjab, with his family in early 2000s. Visited Pakistan in 2018. Has alleged links with Pakistan-based Khalistan Zindabad Force chief Ranjit Singh Neeta. Allegedly handled the smuggling of a weapons consignment into Punjab in 2020.

RAMANDEEP SINGH, a.k.a. RAMAN JUDGE, Gangster

A shooter in Jaipal Bhullar's gang, he fled to Canada in 2019. In association with Dala, he is accused of raising a terror module that carried out the targeted killings of a sacrilege suspect and a businessman in Moga in 2020. Currently based in British Columbia, he faces seven FIRs in Punjab.

in New Delhi. State Department Secretary Antony Blinken at a press conference said, "We want to see accountability and it's important that the investigations run their course and lead to a result." India hit back at its critics, with external affairs minister S. Jaishankar in his speech at the UN General Assembly saying, "Rule-makers do not subjugate rule-takers. After all, rules will work only when they apply equally to all. Nor must we countenance that political convenience determines responses to terrorism, extremism and violence. Similarly, respect for territorial integrity and non-interference in internal affairs cannot be exercises in cherry-picking."

INDIA'S TOUGH STAND

Jaishankar's extraordinarily tough statement signalled that India will bat on the front foot in its face-off with Canada. And that it was calling out the "double standards" of Western countries who have taken extreme action against foreign nations to protect their national interests while denouncing any effort by emerging powers to do so. Later, in response to a specific question on Canada's charge, Jaishankar told a gathering of American foreign policy experts, "We have told Canada that it is not the Government of India's policy, and that if they have something specific or relevant, we are open to look at it." It was clear, however, that India was no longer willing to stand by and watch Canada-based Khalistan extremists carry out nefarious anti-India activities, including aiding and abetting terror strikes, while Ottawa refuses to clamp down on them citing freedom of speech and sedition laws different from India's. And that if Canada continued with what one Indian diplomat termed as "masterful inaction to curb such violent, extreme anti-India elements", New Delhi was willing to put its entire bilateral ties on the line and down-

INDIA HAS MADE IT CLEAR THAT IT WILL BAT ON THE FRONT FOOT IN ITS FACE-OFF WITH CANADA, EVEN DOWNGRADING TIES