Saj in the Forest, Pench, Madhya Pradesh

This luxurious boutique resort adjacent to the Pench National Park—the same forest that inspired The Jungle Book—is a welcome getaway from the cityscape. Embodying the natural, serene setting of the region, this 19-room property has accommodation in three categories (all named after a local landmark tree species—Mahua, Palash, Sal), is aesthetically pleasing and weaves in elements of local art and culture. The food at the inhouse restaurant is a blend of Indian and global cuisines, offering something for every type of visitor. The resort offers a variety of activities like the thoughtfully curated jungle safari, a backwaters safari set in a secret location or a pottery session at the nearby village.

Wayanad Wild, Lakkidi, Kerala

If peeking out of treetops in the heart of a rainforest is your dream, a stay at Wayanad Wild will fulfil it. This surreal CGH Earth property is nestled in the heart of nature in northern Kerala. The spacious rooms, each with a balcony overlooking stunning views of green trees, are fitted with modern amenities and the chilly hills provide natural air-conditioning. The infinity pool tipping over into the foliage feels surreal, night safaris tread into darkness to rendezvous with resident nocturnal friends, and guided foot expeditions are a learning experience about the local wilderness. For the adventure-minded, bamboo rafting and ziplining are arranged. Work up an appetite to devour fresh meals made by the inhouse chef that reflect the local tastes but with twists to cater to the well-travelled guest.
