

"Uttarakhand government is working for benefit of youth with the Mantra of sushasan in state. State government is committed to make Uttarakhand a corruption free state."

— Pushkar Singh Dhami
Chief Minister, Uttarakhand

Along with that, 1000 science teachers of state will get educational training in national science institute Bengaluru so that better science education can be imparted to students.

Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami is also paying a lot of attention to school education. On the lines of Rajiv Gandhi Navodaya Vidyalaya, Residential schools for girls will be opened in every district in a phased manner to promote girl child education in the state. With the fund issued to the panchayats, Playgrounds will be constructed in government schools of the state on the basis of the availability of the land. Integrated laboratories in 100 schools at high school level and laboratories related to subjects like physics, science, chemistry, botany and geography will be established in 100 schools at intermediate level with the help of the infrastructure related resources available at secondary education level. Residential houses will be constructed for teachers in the first phase in 50 schools of far flung areas of the state. Students of the schools covered under PM Poshan Yojana will get milk twice in a week instead of a single day in the week. Rs 100 per day per student will be given for fooding of students in residential hostels of Rajiv Gandhi Navodaya Vidyalaya, Kasturba Gandhi residential girl hostel and Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose hostel.

Chief Minister Dhami has announced that Mukhymantri Bal Ashraya scheme will be launched for the arrangement of the education from class 1 to 12 of those children who become orphans due to any natural calamity and accident. Under this scheme, children will get books, uniforms, bags, shoes and socks along with stationery free of cost. In the coming years, a state level science festival will be organised with the help of the state science and technology council. Science students across the state will get a chance to showcase their project and also get an opportunity to learn from the scientists in this festival. Vidya Samiksha Kendra will be constructed within 6 months to make the education system transparent and of high quality. Uttarakhand will be the second state to form this Samiksha Kendra after Gujarat.
