NEW TRENDS

- NIFT, New Delhi, has embraced emerging tech such as AI, VR, mechatronics, smart textiles, etc., as part of its evolving curriculum
- During the Covid-19 pandemic, a number of faculty members pursued relevant Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs) to learn new skills offered by various global providers

ics. A course in fashion communication has also been introduced keeping in mind the growing opportunities in fashion writing and research and publication. Separately, the Craft Cluster initiative, which seeks to sensitise students to the workings of the crafts sector in India, has been integrated into the main curriculum.

Increased industry interaction for students through classroom projects and internships remains the focus of the programmes offered. With 25 contact hours per week, there is ample time for studio practice and self-study. The institute organises a placement week every year for the graduating students, under which a host of organisations, including international firms, visit the campus.

NIFT, New Delhi, frequently contributes to industry and government projects. The most recent ones among them are the revamp of the Indian Army combat uniforms, designing uniforms for the Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation of India Limited
