STUDENTSPEAK

"Studying at AIIMS is not at all stressful. The faculty shows a lot of empathy.... The opportunities provided to learn and research will help us in pursuing further specialisations after the MBBS course"

KEERTHI TEJA

MBBS, 2nd year

Srinivas, the institute's director who took charge in September 2022. The SET facility has been established under his leadership.

Teaching at AIIMS has always been practice driven, but the emphasis and opportunities have seen a distinct rise in recent years. Most skills are taught through a blended learning model, where students complete theory, watch videos and then get a certificate before coming for hands-on training at a skill lab. AIIMS has also adopted the flipped classroom model, where a significant portion of time is devoted to discussion, workshops and increased student-faculty interactions.

That said, medical education revolves around patient care being provided at an institute. The more diverse the patients and conditions are, the better the students become at managing a wide range of problems. Since Dr Srinivas took over, there has been a 25 per cent uptick in OPD capacity and over 10 per cent in critical care beds. The institute also has a new surgical block and a block dedicated exclusively to mother and child care. For budding doctors like Teja, who have been able to secure a seat at the institute, being at AIIMS, New Delhi, it's a dream come true in multiple ways. ■
